Global Botanicals Extracts Market Is Poised For Growth

Oghma Partners is pleased to share the release of its European Botanical Extracts Market and M&A Overview; market growth and M&A activity is underpinned by consumer preferences for healthier products leading to an increased need for botanical extracts in various industries such as food and beverage, nutraceuticals, pharmaceuticals, and personal care.

Our overview is that the sector has seen a steady stream of M&A activity over the last decade and that, despite an overall slowdown in global M&A activity, this looks set to continue due to the attractions of the sector.
